The most wonderful thing about being a part of The Magic Land of Allakazam, was working with the wonderful people we had in our group. We could be getting ready for a show, and something would come up suddenly, I didn't know where to get it, or how to handle the situation, but there was always someone I could call upon. Because everybody was willing to help and do any thing that was necessary, because we were working together as a team. And we didn't even think about that, we only thought about the fun we were having together. It was a dream come true.
